PRÉFACE

Because this index only covers a decade of the Archivum Historicum Societatis Iesu, specifically the issue published between 1982 and 1991, it is shorter than its predecessors. During that decade, however, two especially important volumes appeared: the first, in 1984, was a festschrift honouring Miquel Batllori, S.J. (1909-2003) on his 75th birthday; the second commemorated the 500th anniversary of the birth of St. Ignatius Loyola (1491-1991). Contributions to these special issues and, indeed, to the journal in general, range over a wide selection of topics: from art to architecture, from pedagogy, especially the Ratio studiorum, to Jesuit theatre, to specialized studies of various Jesuits, and to editions of previously unknown archival documents. This index follows the structure of previous ones. One change, however, has been made. After some editorial discussion, it was decided to abandon the traditional Latin in favour of English, now generally read and understood more universally than the classical language.

Regarding names, especially names of Jesuits, the editorial board follows the criteria laid down in the bibliography of László Polgár, S.J., and uses the original form of proper names, surnames and baptismal names, of persons mentioned. Regarding place names, as far as possible, the English form has been used. When this was not possible, we have included the name by which the place was known and its current name in the original language, e.g. Alba Iulia (Gyulafehérvár, Romania), are given.

We have tried to combine topics and themes whenever possible. See, for example, the listing for China, Loyola, and the Spiritual Exercises. Larger entries are subdivided thematically. This index differs from its predecessors in that that it provides the reader with the name, subject and page (this in bold text) in the same entry. Personal names appear in capital letters. Only the first letter of place names and subjects is capitalized.
